FEAST OF ST. BARTHOLOMEW AUGUST 24TH It is an annual feast day to celebrate the life and miracles of St. Bartholomew, one of the first apostles of Jesus Christ. He dedicated his life to spreading the teachings of Jesus. St. Bartholomew is the patron saint of tanners, tailors, plasterers, and leatherworkers. He is also associated with bookbinders, farmers, house painters, butchers, and glove makers due to the manner of his death. Because of his efforts to spread Christianity in Armenia, he is also the patron saint of that country. The complete history of St. Bartholomew is unknown to us. However, historical scholars and theologians believe he was from Galilee. They also believe that Bartholomew was a Jewish law scholar who was close to Philip, another apostle. The books of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and Acts mention him as one of the first apostles. However, the name 'Bartholomew' does not appear in John's Gospel. Many believe 'Nathanael,' mentioned in John's Gospel, is 'Bartholomew,' and it is the saint's given name. Many believed that after being chosen as an apostle by Jesus Christ, he went to Armenia to spread Christianity. However, there are other claims that he went to India in 55 A.D. According to most sources, he was assassinated for converting an Armenian king, Polymius, to Christianity. St. Bartholomew's Church is one of the most important and historically significant buildings in Blacktown, Australia. In 1841, St. Bartholomew's Church and the Anglican Cemetery were built. He was buried in Germany after being flayed and beheaded.
